Q: probability $P[X=k \mid Z=n]$ given a random vector X with support $\{0,1\}$ and unknown distribution function $F(x)$. I know that the distribution of a random vector (X,Z) is uniform, where Z is a random variable, Z is uniformly distributed over $\{1,2,\dots,n\}$ with n as the period of the random vector. what is the probability $P[X=k \mid Z=n]$? I can write $P[X=k \mid Z=n]=P[(X,Z) \in E]$ where E is the cylinder with base $A=(0,n)$ and height $B=(k,\infty)$ $P[(X,Z) \in E]=P[X \in B \mid Z \in A]=P[X \in B]$ and then write $P[X \in B]=\int_A \int_B F(x) dx_1 dx_2 \dots$ but what is the following integral over \mathbb{R}^+ ? $\int_A \int_B F(x) dx_1 dx_2 \dots = \int_0^n \int_k^\infty F(x) dx_1 dx_2 \dots = \frac{1}{n}$ where $A=(0,n)$ and $B=(k,\infty)$, this is the right answer? A: This should be $P[X=k \mid Z=n]=\frac{\int_0^n \int_k^\infty F(x) dx_1 dx_2 \dots}{\int_0^n \int_k^\infty F(x) dx_1 dx_2 \dots} = \frac{1}{n}$ Governor Tim Walz continues his visit to South Dakota to highlight the state's economic success. USDA Whips up the Pile for Livestock In the end, the U.S. Department of Agriculture is raring to rumble for the mis-selling of its Livestock forage loan program in a First Amendment suit. It's no longer a matter of the government vs. the company that runs the program – it's the government vs. itself. Franklin O'Brien at Covington & Burling, a Washington, D.C.-based law firm, and Christopher Parker, chief counsel at the USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, are the defendants in the suit, filed Jan. 15 in the U.S. District Court in Washington, D.C. The department's handling of the case appears to be the first federal civil suit involving a USDA financial instrument. Jim Jerral, USDA counsel at the Agricultural Marketing Service, said the department would not discuss the lawsuit or confirm whether other legal action is pending against the USDA over the forage loan program. The government sued O'Brien and Parker to recover more than \$1 billion in overpayments made to cattle feeders by a private debt-collection company, FarmLines. The plaintiffs in the case, FarmLines and its executive director, are not defendants in the suit. In one instance – of 52,000 legal demands sent to cattle feeders seeking payment for \$5.2 billion in debt – the USDA sued for \$40 million when the borrowers didn't pay. FarmLines, in turn, sued the USDA, saying the department's lawsuit was based on a flawed accounting in the forage loan program. "FarmLines is not a party to this suit," Jerral said. "In other words, the U.S. Government is suing itself." He said the USDA's suit was brought because it is required to account for all the costs and revenues in the forage loan program. Agricultural loan programs have been around since the 1930s, and there were five such programs as of the time the USDA sued. A USDA report notes that the forage loan program requires commercial feeders, not individual producers, to set aside an amount of corn to be used as livestock feed. The lawsuit states that the USDA has engaged in "unlawful, unconscionable, and deceptive acts in connection with
