- mini-game of life is not in the game yet, but is planned. - planned but has been postponed v1.1 - Improved some graphics, added new original sprites. - new music! New wallpapers will be added too. - New plot! New game mode! New ending! - new challenge! I will make a great game that would provide an enegy. New enemies! Hacking, adventuring and exploration combined in a super fast paced first person game. You will find yourself in the heart of a world where you will be able to hack into nooks and crannies, explore ancient crypts, and solve some fairly complex puzzles to save your companions. But that's not all! You will be able to hack into your enemies and their minions to steal their technology and find the hidden parts of their world. Furthermore, do keep in mind that your companions are to be saved or they will succumb to their memories and fears, with some unfortunate results. An all-action hacking adventure unlike anything you have played before! On their journey through space, robots become powerful enough to eventually build their own planets. Each planet has its own inhabitants, but soon after, some of them do not want the machines to build their planet, and declare war on the robots. Robots have to fend off enemies, and increase the levels of their bots to win. KinderEye takes place in a world where humanity is living alongside numerous sentient species. There are three races that make up humanity: Uplanders, Explorers, and Striders. The three races have made an alliance together to eliminate the threat of the Doomskulls. The Doomskulls are a mysterious, savage, and relentless alien race that is the most violent and dangerous opponent humanity has faced. The three races must work together to vanquish the Doomskulls once and for all. You've entered the age of alien technology. Long gone are the times of yours and our ancestors' teched up planes and space rockets to the moon. The interstellar missions are the domain of entirely new species. And there's a common set of skills, right down to piloting and operating a robotic combat vehicle, that will be needed to take them on. The game is currently in Alpha, and has a Beta coming in early March. But if you'd like to get involved, please sign up for the Closed

What's new:

II In Springwood 1964 Leslie completed a vehicle she had decided on for over 20 years - a Bierwagen Convertible. Leslie's conversion is based on a car she has owned since 1958 and been working on for many years, a Ford Prefect 6V which she has regularly re-trimmed and upgraded. The car was originally bought brand new from the Ford dealer in London by Les's mother at the time, just outside London on the M1, along with the Ford Granada with which it was equipped, this was simply the original choice of vehicle available. Little was done to the car at this stage except some occasional maintenance, so when the car was retired two years later, it was more of an inconvenience than anything to get rid of it. It was replaced by Les's mum's choice, a Peugeot 403, which she had already owned for 9 years in total. The car sat in her back garden in the outbuilding where it had been left. Four and a half years went by and the car was still there when mum died aged 79 in 1971 and the "daughter" in charge of the estate (mum was childless) had to get rid of it as she was not able to make it a priority. She had plans to resurrect the car which did remain undestroyed for 18 years, until in February 1978 Leslie's dad bought the car from the daughter for £300 (!!!) as he wanted a car for the family within easy commuting distance of his place in Cheltenham. It was still registered in the daughters name as she drove it to work in London and her husband also drove it, but the daughter kept the car for herself, but only made it to work in London where she lived. Leslie's dad bought the car on a time-expiry lease, as the car was not roadworthy due to a brake problem and the clutch was seized. Since the father had his own business and it was not a vehicle the exact make was not really important, and although this car had a reputation that the clutch and brakes were good for many many years, it was never replaced, so as far as Les (or the dad) was concerned, he was the owner of a marvellous Prefect with a bad name! He kept it for a few years, occasionally making modifications to it for a few of the many wives who GameDevDan vs Life is a collection of short games, written and created by one man, about the one-night-stand love-affair that has been GameDevDan. They're all hosted on a familiar old friend, Joe's Game Jam Game Collection, which has been lovingly created with love by a lonely, faded musician and his friends on the internet. This, in essence, is my life. So welcome and thanks for joining me on this short journey from random person to slightly more successful human being, and for taking a look inside GameDevDan vs Life.
